

WHAT I LEARNED FROM _____?

John L. Whitwell
Director of Bands Emeritus
Michigan State University

NBA/IGSMA Band Director Workshop November 4, 2014

“What I Learned from _____” is a clinic which will be a detailed discussion about some of the great icons in instrumental music education – their education, influences, teaching philosophy and techniques, personalities, and legacy – along with many personal stories.

Each of us is a composite of our family influences, teachers and mentors, friends, and every life experience. The same is true of these exemplary iconic figures.

We all start our careers “playing the role” of the music educator, usually imitating our teacher. As we mature, we gradually discover WHO WE ARE and our teaching evolves to accommodate the greater life experience.

Wouldn't it be wonderful if our profession could synthesize and assimilate what has been refined by the greatest among those earlier generations?

MAC E. CARR

HARRY BEGIAN

ELIZABETH A. H. GREEN

H. ROBERT REYNOLDS

WILLIAM D. REVELLI

DALE CLEVINGER